The proposed rule regarding the possible implementation of an IP-based 911 system (document ID FCC-2011-0015-0001) is an incredibly important progression into the digital world. The modern communications landscape is a multifunctional service where consumers are not restricted to merely transmitting phone calls, yet the 911 system, arguably the backbone of America's crime prevention efforts, is antiquated and limited. The shift to a Next Generation 911 system, which I fully support, will result in a more intelligent and efficient police force.
